3.6 - Extension Activities

3.6.1 - Extension activities carried out in the neighbourhood sensitising students to social issues for their holistic development, and the impact thereof during the year

The Department of Botany organised a series of lectures on every Sunday at 11.00 am to enlighten students and society in general on the issues pertaining to climate change, biodiversity, wild life and human relationship, nature conservation etc.. The increasing number of attendees showed their interest and inclination towards these issues. However, the impact of qualitative measures of awareness cannot be judged within a short span of time, certainly this will have an impact on the thinking process of stakeholders.

The Botany department also organised wild vegetable festival in online mode and exhibition of medicinal plants in offline mode. These activities are organised every year and the participants and visitors are made aware about the value of these vegetables and plants. The encouraging result is that many students and people in general have started to plant these medicinal plants.

The WDC department of the college organised two webinars on gender sensitisation and psychological health of adolescents.
